ELECTROLYSIS RED VEIN / SKIN TAG REMOVAL - THERMOCOAGULATION

Thermo coagulation is a minimally invasive technique used in the treatment of specific types of veins on the face. Most patients find the treatment to be quick, with minimal discomfort. Thermocoagulation is used for spider veins that are too small for sclerotherapy or to be removed surgically appropriate veins include fine telangiectasia, small cherry angiomas, and veins that are resistance to Intense Pulse Light IPL treatment.

This advanced treatment is used for effective safe removal of benign fibrous and vascular blemishes including broken capillaries, blood spots, red vein, skin tags, warts and moles and age/spots.

This treatment is quick and safe and leaves no scarring. A few treatments may be required with the exception of skin tags.
